Atlanta's first and only high-quality Japanese Robata grills, the chefs use Binchotan, a specialty oak wood charcoal, that is also imported directly from Japan to seal in the flavor of seafood and gourmet meats such as Kobe beef, duck, and quail, along with a variety of Japanese seafood and vegetables. As entrees cook over a high-flame, and low-smoke grill, the chefs use traditional washi paper fans to gently control the temperature. Everything is served a la carte to encourage sharing.

BON APPETIT

By Andrew Knowlton

"The second sushi place from brothers Chris and Alex Kinjo spans 8,000 square feet, including a 26-seat sushi bar, an omakase (chef's choice) room, and three private dining rooms. The sushi selection and the new robata grill menu are outstanding!"

ATLANTA PEACH MAGAZINE

By Jonathan Lerner

"So understated that you can barely find the entrance, it is a perfect showcase for the exquisite food, and one of the best meals I've ever eaten."

FOOD & WINE

By Danny Bonvissuto

"At this Japanese sister restaurant to Midtown's MF Sushibar, servers shave fresh wasabi with a sharkskin grater"

"The menu from Chris "Magic Fingers" Kinjo features fish flown in from Tokyo's Tsukiji market, such as mirugai (giant clam), as well as Japanese black cod cooked on MF's robata grill".

AIR TRAN

By Tony Ware

*Slicing through the nation's top sushi experiences

The sleek, lustrous interior and perpetually energetic ambiance—as well as the ocean-fresh à la carte options— you'd believe yourself to be near Malibu or Melrose.

CREATIVE LOAFING

By Cliff Bostock

"The Kinjo brothers are flying in fish from the Tsukiji Market in Tokyo, and nothing demonstrated the high quality and freshness as much as simple nigiri – kampachi, very young yellow-tail, and kinmedai, golden-eye red snapper."

PIEDMONT REVIEW

By Miles K. Neiman

"It's safe to say that over the past several years with MF Midtown, Nam, and now MF Buckhead, the Kinjos have contributed to a higher level of sophistication within Atlanta's fine dining scene."

THE ATLANTA JOURNAL-CONSTITUTION

By Meridith Ford

"MF Buckhead has done something that no other restaurant in Atlanta has ever done on such a grand scale. Its 8,000 square feet of jaw-dropping space has finally — and successfully — combined the big, bold Buckhead look that Atlanta loves with an absolutely incomparable dining experience. After experiencing MF, it will be hard to eat sushi anywhere else".

GEORGIA TREND MAGAZINE

By Krista Reese

"Atlanta's recent dining headlines are all about big-name restaurateurs who've opened shop here – including Jean-Georges Vongerichten's Spice Market at the new W Hotel in Midtown. They're nationally known players, just discovering that Atlanta is a real restaurant town – but in terms of drama, risk and exciting food, they have nothing on the Kinjo brothers' homegrown efforts".
